

Notes on Contributors

James J. Farrell is professor of history at Saint Olaf College, where he is director of American Studies and Boldt Distinguished Professor in the Humanities.

Bill Bryant is a Ph.D. student in American Studies at the University of Iowa.

Michael Fass is an adjunct professor in the behavioral science department at Miami Dade Community College—North Campus. A Ph.D. student in psychology at Florida International University, he received his master's degree in colonial American history from Florida State University.

Dennis Barone is the co-editor of The Art of Practice: Forty-Five Contemporary Poets (1994) and editor of Beyond the Red Notebook: Essays on Paul Auster (1995). Professor of American Studies and English at Saint Joseph College in West Hartford, Connecticut, he is the author of a collection of short stories, The Returns (1995).

Sue Zschoche is assistant professor of history at Kansas State University, where she teaches twentieth-century social history and the history of women in America. She is in the process of completing a manuscript on the history of the early home economics movement, tentatively titled Technology's Arcadia: Home Economics and the Reconstruction of Woman's Sphere, 1890-1930.

Bryan Le Beau is co-ordinator of American Studies at Creighton University. He has published extensively in the field of American religion, and his first book, Frederic Hedge: American Transcendentalist (1985) dealt with religious aspects of American transcendentalism.

Stephen J. Stein is Chancellors' Professor of Religious Studies, adjunct professor of history, and chair of the department of religious studies at Indiana University, Bloomington. He is the author of The Shaker Experience in America: A History of the United Society of Believers and is currently completing work on an edition of Jonathan Edwards's "Notes on Scripture" that will appear in The Works of Jonathan Edwards.

(continued on pg. 223)

(continued from pg. 4)

Mark Hulsether teaches United States religious history and American Studies at the University of Tennessee at Knoxville and is the author of a forthcoming book, The Transformation of Protestant Social Thought: Christianity and Crisis Magazine, 1941-1993.

Melvin Landsberg is professor of English at the University of Kansas. His publications include Dos Passos' Path to "U.S.A." (1972) and John Dos Passos' Correspondence with Arthur K. McComb (1991). He is currently writing short fiction and essays.

Frederick J. Antczak is chair of the department of rhetoric at the University of Iowa. He publishes on issues in rhetorical theory and history, and in American intellectual history and political rhetoric. His latest book is Rhetoric and Pluralism (1995). He is a lifelong Detroit Tiger fan.

Ira L. Strauber is chair of the department of political science at Grinnell College. He is currently revising a book-length manuscript on constitutional commentary as civic education for The Johns Hopkins University Press. He is of the last generation to have seen games at Yankee Stadium, Ebbetts Field, and the Polo Grounds.

Cushing Strout is Ernest I. White Professor of American Studies and Humane Letters emeritus at Cornell University. He recently published "Ralph Ellison: In Memorium" in The Sewanee Review (Spring 1995), and an article on the French intellectual climate is forthcoming in The Partisan Review.

Our THANKS, as always, to scholars who have recently reviewed manuscripts for American Studies: Bill Andrews, University of Kansas; Robert Arner, University of Cincinnati; Nina Baym, University of Illinois; David Cateforis, University of Kansas; Catherine Clinton, Brandeis University; Ken Cmiel, University of Iowa; Hugh Egan, Ithaca College; David Farber, Barnard College; Jim Farrell, Saint Olaf College; John Philip Gleason, Notre Dame University; Ellen Gold, University of Kansas; David Grimstead, University of Maryland; Ray Hiner, University of Kansas; Rich Horwitz, University of Iowa; Tom Inge, Randolph-Macon University; Michael Katz, University of Pennsylvania; Gary Kulik, Winterthur Museum; David Langum, Samford University; Cheryl Lester, University of Kansas; Dan Littlefield, University of Arkansas, Little Rock; Peter Mancall, University of Kansas; Alan Marcus, Iowa State University; Edwin Miller, New York University; Steve Mintz, University of Houston; Maureen Murphy, Hofstra University; Josh Ozersky, Notre Dame University; Burt Peretti, Mississippi State College; Daniel Pope, Fullerton State College; Robert Sattlemeyer, Georgia State University; Barry Shank, University of Kansas; Frank Warren, Queens College; Donald Worster, University of Kansas; Michael Wreszin, Queens College; Jim Zwick, Syracuse University.