

Reno's Big Gamble Image and Reputation in the Biggest Little City

Alicia Barber

"No place has worked harder than 'the biggest little city in the world' to shape its identity and reputation. Alicia Barber tells a fascinating story about the ways that insiders and outsiders have constructed and reconstructed Reno's image in pursuit of the big bonanza of economic growth."—Carl Abbott, author of The Metropolitan Frontier: Cities in the Modern American West

320 pages, 30 illustrations, Cloth $34.95

Indian-Made Navajo Culture in the Marketplace, 1868–1940

Erika Marie Bsumek

"Bsumek's powerful work makes us think in fresh ways about the awkward and often anxious relationship between indigenous peoples' creative expression and those who admire and collect it."—James F. Brooks, author of Captives and Cousins: Slavery, Kinship, and Community in the Southwest Borderlands

EMPIRES OF TRUST

How Rome Built—and America Is Building—a New World

THOMAS F. MADDEN

"Madden asks us to contemplate the invisible and often unconscious dynamic that transforms some nations into empires, often against their will... A break-out book."

— Joseph J. Ellis,
Pulitzer Prize-winner

"So much nonsense has been written and talked in recent years about America as the New Rome—a Republic on the verge of imperial corruption, or an empire on the verge of dissolution—that it is a breath of fresh air to read Thomas Madden. His scholarly credentials as a pre-modern historian are impeccable. Yet he also has the ability, too rare in the academy, to write with bracing clarity and to address our present preoccupations. No, we aren't Rome. But understanding why not, as Madden demonstrates, is an essential precondition for appreciating what we really are."

—Niall Ferguson, Harvard University, author of Colossus

"An original thesis, lucidly argued—and timely in an uncanny fashion."

—Victor Davis Hanson, author Carnage and Culture
