Chimères is a literary journal published twice annually by the graduate students of the Department of French and Italian at The University of Kansas. Now in its fourteenth year, Chimères seeks to provide a forum for scholarly and creative expression by non-tenured Ph.D's and advanced graduate students in the fields of French and Italian. The journal hopes to serve as a means for the lively exchange of ideas and as an outlet for literary scholarship at the University of Kansas and elsewhere.

Papers may deal with any aspect of French or Italian literature, language or culture. We shall consider any critical study, essay, bibliography or book review. Such material may be submitted in English, French or Italian. The editors encourage the submission of poems and short stories written in French or Italian.

Manuscripts must conform to the MLA Style Sheet and should not exceed 15 pages in length. All submissions should be double-spaced and be clearly marked with the author's name and address. Please submit all material in duplicate to help facilitate the editorial process. If return of the material is desired, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Chimères appears in Autumn and Spring numbers. The annual subscription rate is $4 for individuals and $10 for libraries and institutions.

The journal is published with funds provided in part by the Student Activity Fee through the Graduate Student Council of The University of Kansas.

Proust et le texte producteur

Edited by John Erickson & Irène Pagès

Texts by Serge Doubrovsky, Michael Finn, Enid Marantz, Jean Milly, Marcel Muller, Michel Raimond, Jean Ricardou, Joan Rosasco, Stéphane Sarkany & Emily Zants

These essays by ten distinguished critics explore in the work of Marcel Proust the function if not to say the nature of the text in constant transformation. They analyse the phenomenon of intertextuality: the work as the "absorption and transformation of a multiplicity of other texts" (Kristeva), as well as the interaction of the text with itself, the reverberation between theme and organization, object and écriture, physical landscape and moral-psychic landscape. The Proustian text spills over, effects transmutation at the heart of writing and through writing. More than any other writing, that of Proust lends itself to this débordement and metamorphosis, such that it becomes the model of a texte producteur.
