Quality Plus and Sony's Guarantee!

CCP-13B

The Sony name is synonymous with quality and reliability. When added to the CCP-13B audio cassette duplicator, it also means a 2-year warranty against head wear that is unique in the industry. No other manufacturer matches it. We make the offer since Sony uses hard glass-like ferrite in fabricating its record and playback heads. If you're going to run tape across the heads at 8 or 16 times normal speed, you know a lot of heat will be generated and added to that caused by the bias and audio signals. Laminated permalloy heads deteriorate rapidly under such conditions, but not Sony's F & F heads. Sony manufactures the complete head including growing the ferrite crystals, controlling the mix of the various elements, the temperature and the pressure. There are many formulations of ferrite with certain types ideally suited to high-speed audio copying. Sony research has determined this optimum combination and produced a head with ferrite poles as well as a ferrite face, resulting in a unique combination of flat frequency response and resistance to wear. The next time you talk to a duplicator salesman, ask him what the head-wear warranty is. If it's not a Sony, he can't say, "Two years".

By the way, ALL SONY AUDIO COPIERS carry a 2-year head wear warranty, not just the CCP-13B.
