

TABLE OF CONTENTS

FEATURES

Understanding the Diversity of Chuckwallas (Genus Sauromalus) and a Debate Over Names . . .	Bradford D. Hollingsworth	78
Species Profile: The Tortuga Island Rattlesnake (Crotalus tortugensis)	Kent R. Beaman and Carol L. Spencer	87
A Survey of Ricord's Iguanas (Cyclura ricordii) and Rhinoceros Iguanas (Cyclura cornuta cornuta) in Isla Cabritos National Park, Dominican Republic, 2003	Jan Ramer	88
Sidebar: A Threat to National Parks in the Dominican Republic	Sixto Incháustegui	96
Species Profile: Leiocephalus semilineatus	Robert Powell	97
Magnificent Iguanas of Isla Mona	John Bendon	98
Species Profile: The Ground Lizards of Isla Mona: Ameiva alboguttata	Robert Powell	107
Species and Subspecies: What Do They Mean and Why Should We Care?	Robert Powell	108

HUSBANDRY

Captive Husbandry of the Chuckwalla (Sauromalus ater)	Brian Aucone	114
Sidebar: Feeding Frequency	AJ Gutman	119

PROFILE

James "Skip" Lazell	Numi Mitchell	120
-------------------------------	----------------------	-----

HISTORICAL PERSPECTIVES

Food Habits of the Chuckwalla, Sauromalus obesus	Charles E. Shaw	124
Biographical Sketch: Johann Baptist von Spix	Robert Powell	125

BOOK REVIEWS

Cuban Herpetology	Robert Powell	126
-----------------------------	----------------------	-----

IGUANA NEWSBRIEFS		129
-----------------------------	--	-----

EDITORIAL INFORMATION		135
---------------------------------	--	-----

LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT		136
-------------------------------------	--	-----

A Mexican family prepares an iguana for dinner. Iguana farms that provide meat for locals in El Salvador are seeking to break into the U.S. market (see Newsbriefs, p. 129). Photograph by Robert F. Wilkinson.