Editor's Remarks

Our efforts to expand and diversify the content of Iguana create an ever-increasing demand to obtain new and often rare photographs to enhance content and adorn covers. Locating sources for this material is a daunting task that often takes months of searching just to obtain a single photograph. Several generous photographers have consistently donated photographs in support of our efforts. Their contributions have played a major part in shaping the new look of Iguana. The IRCF gratefully thanks: Suzanne L. Collins, CNAH (www.cnah.org), a major contributor of many photographs over the past few years; Thomas Wiewandt, Wild Horizons (www.WildHorizons.com), for spectacular photographs that include this issue's cover; L. Lee Grismer, La Sierra University, for breathtaking photographs; Joseph Burgess, for photographs and other countless contributions; Joseph Wasilewski, Natural Selections (www.natselections.com), for crocodylian and iguana photographs; and Glenn P. Gerber, CRES (<http://cres.sandiegozoo.org>) for photographs of West Indian Rock Iguanas.
