

TOMAS WÄLLER

Yellow Anacondas (Eunectes notaeus) harvested as part of the Yellow Anaconda Management Program (YAMP) in Formosa Province, Argentina. Snakes are held alive for biological studies before being killed and skinned. See article on p. 160.

The Green Basilisk (Basiliscus plumifrons) is a large, arboreal, bright-green lizard found along streams throughout lowland Central America. See article on p. 172.

